

Memorial services planned by Legions

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Memorial Day will be celebrated by the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139, Bay St. Louis and the Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray-American Legion Post No. 77, Waveland. Bay St. Louis' legion and auxiliary members will meet at 10 a.m. on Monday at the grave site of Clement R. Bontemps, St. Mary's Cemetery, Necaise Avenue, Bay St. Louis. John Wilkerson, post finance officer, will give the memorial address.

This will be followed with a service in memory of all deceased members at the Bay Legion's Memorial on Green Meadow Road. A reception will follow in the post home, Joe Bermond, Bay Legion commander said.

Waveland's Memorial Day services will be held at 11 a.m. at post home on Coleman Avenue for legion and auxiliary members.

Guest speaker will be Col. Carl Cuculla from Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi for services held in the post home.

This will be followed by the placing of a wreath at the post monument and salute to the post's namesakes.

Following a closing prayer and taps, a reception will be in the post hall, Elden Thomas, Waveland Legion post commander said.

The public is invited to attend the Memorial Day Services at both American Legion posts.

Supervisors approve more library money

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors addressed an array of issues at its regular meeting Thursday.

Among the items on the agenda included library expansion, upgrading cameras in jail, riverboat cruises, carpet, state prisoner fees, fibre optic cables, junk vehicles, overgrown lots, sandbeach, and signs for voting precincts.

The supervisors were unanimous in voting $183,546 in additional funding for the library systems' expansions.

Librarian Prima Plausche, Evelyn Johnson and Michael Haas Jr., extended appreciation to the supervisors for their continued support of the library system.

Sheriff Ronnie Peterson's requests for upgrading equipment for E-911, upgrading cameras, as well as replacing wornout carpet with tile in the dispatchers' office, were approved.

A lengthy discussion was held about the amount of money per day the county receives from the Department of Corrections for housing state prisoners.

Peterson said it is not right for the county to receive only $10 day when the Department of Corrections receives $30 a day.

It was revealed the fees are set by the Legislature and the board was unanimous in proposing a resolution to the State Supervisors Association requesting the Legislature make it a law that the county jails receive the entire amount allocated.

Warden Gerald Necaise told the supervisors that when a prisoner is sentenced and becomes a state prisoner they must also issue supplies such as toothpaste, uniforms, etc., and the county receives nothing for this.

Sheriff Peterson told the supervisors the trustees who have been collecting litter on county roads have already made the round one time and

Patriotism

Veterans organizations across the nation will be honoring those who 'gave their all' for our country on Memorial Day. Patriotism continues in Hancock County as evidenced at a recent Veterans Day parade. Bay St. Louis American Legion Post No. 139 and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 3253 members are displaying colors in the Veterans Day parade. Members are from left, Bud

Moreau, Gilbert Gayout, Richard Johnson, Jim Long, Willie Gavney and Al Summy. The Bay St. Louis American Legion, at 10 a.m. in St. Mary's Cemetery, and the Waveland American Legion, at 11 a.m. in the post home, will conduct Memorial Day Services Monday. (Echo file photo by Randy Ponder.)

State/Stennis push business technology

A new enterprise designed to boost technology-based companies in Mississippi has been established, it was announced at a special ceremony May 25 by Mississippi Gov. Kirk Fordice and NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center Director Roy Estess.

The Mississippi Enterprise for Technology Inc. (MsET) operates as a company under the control of a board of directors as a nonprofit organization to enhance the creation, growth and expansion of technology-based state business and industry.

"Stennis Space Center, the state of Mississippi and the private sector — through this new enterprise — implement a partnership commitment of a magnitude never before assembled in the state," Fordice declared.

"Through the Mississippi Enterprise for Technology," he said, "Stennis Space Center, its tenants and contractors, state and local governments, universities and the private sector can build upon the reality of generating technology, using it well and benefitting from it."

The governor stated, "Mississippi stands at the hinge of its history, with an unprecedented opportunity to combine the lessons of its past with the resources of its future to revitalize the economy, create more jobs and raise the standard of living."

Unlike other initiatives, the enterprise has the responsibility and authority to foster the creation of new, and the support of existing, technology-oriented businesses through a combination of technology transfer and business development activities.

With offices at Stennis Space Center, the Mississippi Enterprise for Technology establishes a "home" to accommodate the technology-oriented firms interested in locating in Mississippi.

An important element of the enterprise is that procedures are in place to evaluate the commercial significance of a product or service. The MsET also serves as a way entrepreneurs can receive support and assis-

Hot spot

About 30 dedicated firefighters from Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Pass Christian Fire Departments were called out to fight a blaze at the Antique Arcade Thursday night around 10 p.m. The fire, of unknown origin, was contained in the top floor and attic of the building, but a close watch was kept to see that any hot spots within the walls did not re-ignite. Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana said the department went back four times to check the building. He commended the efforts of each fire department in saving the structure. REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Each one save one

Fresh off being mugged myself and steeped daily in the ever-mounting homicide statistics in New Orleans and across the country, I was delighted to hear a very promising program for youth on a local radio talk show.

"Each One Save One" is a catch phrase suggested by the mother of TV news personality, Sally Ann Roberts. "If you ever get a youth program together," she exhorted Sally, "that is what you should call it."

After numerous conversations with Cathy Harris, another employee of the TV station, the two of them conceived the idea of "Each One Save One," a mentor program pairing one adult with one child in a school system.

In this program, an adult pledges to give at least one hour per week for one year to being mentor for one student. Unfortunately, in many cases till now it is possible to find enough mentors only at the ratio of one per class.

A mentor need not be a teacher, nor a skilled professional person, but need only to have a big reservoir of good will and to be able to relate to and communicate with the young. Common sense and goodness avail more than book learning.

"Our approach to the problems of the city is not to try to treat the end product, but to treat the beginning, and that's the children," Byrne Sherwood, local program director, began as he explained "Each One Save One."

"We would like with actual success to impact the whole community, and not to save the lives of just a few children."

"Taking nothing away from existing programs which save the lives of a few children, we believe the time is right, the public sentiment is right for good citizens of good will to step forward and take responsibility for one child."

"We're asking for a minimum commitment of one year, hoping, of course, that, as people get into it, they will commit more than that."

"We're not another program such as 'Big Brothers,' 'Big Sisters.' We're actually a clearing house for all programs whose ultimate purpose is mentoring, both those that exist and those that don't exist."

"That would exclude only programs such as the athletic which do not concentrate on mentoring."

"We do recruiting full time. Having recruited, we will screen and train, place mentors in a program with a child, monitor their progress, and pull them back together for sustainment training."

"I'm sure you're well aware, mentoring is a frustrating business and needs sustainment. People need the chance to share their experiences with one another."

As Byrne said, this program goes to the source, the beginning of our community problems: the child. Further, it is an apt umbrella for youth programs at the local, regional and national levels. It would be intriguing to see it take off.

Each mayor, each city council, each state legislature and the federal government itself are all straining to find solutions and to pool our resources in halting the advance of crime by molding our youth into responsible citizens.

Attention, all youth and adults of the U.S.! This program is too good to be buried in the problems of one city.

State garden magazine holds keys to success

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

A recent planning meeting for Mississippi Gardens magazine gave me new reason to be excited about this magazine. The driving forces behind Mississippi Gardens gathered to suggest and select topics for the magazine for the next year or so. There are a lot of great articles in store for readers.

If you aren't familiar with Mississippi Gardens magazine, you should know that it's a gardening magazine written by Mississippians for Mississippians. The premier issue appeared in the fall of 1992, and an issue has appeared every two months since.

As a gardener I've subscribed to gardening magazines for years. Horticulture magazine was one of my favorites along with Organic Gardening, National Gardening, Southern Living and Flower and Garden. I've never had a subscription to Fine Gardening, but enjoy reading it, as well as Better Homes and Gardens.

A lot of magazines with information for gardeners pass through my hands. One nice thing about these magazines is that they are readily available and current copies of most can be found on the magazine shelves of public libraries.

One thing that bothers me about all these fine magazines is that they are regional and mostly national in scope, and gardening information is seldom if ever at the state level. The national magazines may have a regional section, but because of the nature of their readership, the feature articles must be of broader interest.

If you've suffered the same frustration looking for local information, suffer it no more. Mississippi Gardens is about gardening in Mississippi. It also should appeal to gardeners in other states, but the center of focus is Mississippi. No other gardening magazine offers that.

Feature topics for future issues of Mississippi Gardens discussed at the recent planning meeting include: native orchids, vines, garden pools, ground covers, native fruit, lilies, cannas, pruning, bed edging, sweet corn, native hollies, mushrooms and others. A Mississippi gardener's interest and problems with cannas, for example, are not necessarily the same as those of a Michigan gardener who might be writing for a national magazine.

Mississippi Gardens is published six times a year. A year's subscription costs $15.95, which includes postage and handling, and is available by calling 1-800-843-1135 or 601-960-3671 Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., or by writing Mississippi Gardens, P.O. Box 7856, Jackson, MS 39284-9900.

are now beginning a second round.

Supervisor Robert Peterson said, "Two or three days after the trustees pick up on a road, and they do a very good job, people are still throwing litter from their vehicles."

Sheriff Peterson stated, "We realize it is a serious problem."

Peterson did tell the supervisors there was a litter ticket issued last week by his department for someone littering.

Assessor/tax collector Eddie Murtagh appeared before the supervisors with a request to accept the lowest bid received for the placement of fibre optic cables between the courthouse and jail for the new computer systems.

Patty Greer, comptroller, was authorized to purchase several precinct signs for the upcoming election.

Ben Yglesias received a five year permit to operate Belle Carol River Cruises from adjacent water bottom to the American Legion Memorial Pier. The county has a 25-year lease on the pier from the legion.

Supervisor Wilmer Seymour expressed concern about the heavy use of the facility during the opening of shrimping season.

Supervisors were in complete agreement they did not want anything to conflict with the use of the facility by shrimpers when the season was at its height.

Yglesias said, "I will give way to that and move the boat away from the pier during shrimping season."

The Belle Carol is scheduled to make two-hour trips from the Reef Restaurant Landing to Bay St. Louis when it begins operation.

Yglesias indicated he had already received permission from the state to place pilings and a small barge and the facility would not be a part of the Legion pier.

Harold Hine, county purchasing agent, was authorized to remove two junked vehicles, one from the sheriff's office and the other from the county, off inventory.

County Fire Marshal Richard Pate presented the supervisors with a report, including photos, on four property locations they requested him to check on to see if they were fire hazards.

Exercise caution when burning

The recent dry weather has made conditions right for fires to burn out of control. Hancock County's Fire Marshal Richard Pate wants to warn everyone of the "very dangerous fire situation" that is facing area residents.

The fire marshal said to make sure that you have water handy to put out any stray flames that occur when you are burning refuse and to make sure the site around the fire is clear.

Senator Cochran to be at Memorial Day ceremonies

U.S. Senator Thad Cochran will join veterans and decorated war heroes Monday, May 30 for Memorial Day ceremonies in the Biloxi National Cemetery. The program will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the National Cemetery on the grounds of the VA Medical Center (400 Veterans Avenue, off Hwy. 90 in Biloxi).

Maj. Gen. James E. Livingston, Commanding General of the Marine Reserve Force in New Orleans, a Medal of Honor winner, will also be on the program to dedicate a Medal of Honor grave marker for Col. Ira Welborn, U.S. Army, who was killed in the battle of San Juan Hill.

"I am honored to participate in this Memorial Day ceremony on the Mississippi Gulf Coast," Senator Cochran said. "Our nation owes a lot to the brave men and women of our Armed Forces who have given their lives so that we may live in freedom."

"It is with a deep feeling of appreciation that we pay tribute to them, for the sacrifices they have made in our behalf."

Senator Cochran noted that Memorial Day this year comes just one week before the 50th anniversary of D-Day, the historic invasion of Normandy by American and Allied forces, which he says "serves as a

The supervisors authorized board attorney Gerald Gex to begin the procedure to notify the property owners they need to clear the hazards.

The county has to send a letter and give the property owner a certain number of days to respond and if they do not, they then hold a public hearing. If the property is then declared a fire hazard, the supervisors can receive bids to have it cleared and add to the property's taxes.

Supervisors went on record commending Pate for doing an outstanding job.

Bill Mitchell, beach project engineer, reported the installation of culverts continues and is well on schedule.

Some 2.16 miles has been accepted as complete Mitchell reported. The engineer said the drainage has to be complete before a section can be accepted.

Supervisors agreed with Mitchell's suggestion to hold a ribbon cutting ceremony whenever the project is complete.

Steve Delahousey reported the contract between Mobile Medic and Hancock County needed to be renewed.

The supervisors received a withdrawal request from J&R Ambulance Service Inc., on their January request for an application for a license to operate in Hancock County.

It is reported there was a buyout of J&R by Mobile Medic.

A discussion was held about the rates Mobile Medic would receive on a new contract and the board was unanimous in tabling the contract for further study.

The matter is to be on the board's June 6 agenda.

Memorial Day was declared a county holiday.

Haas re-elected Public Defender state president

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Waveland attorney Nicholas McLeod (Mac) Haas has been re-elected president of the Mississippi Public Defenders Association.

Charles Yow of Bay St. Louis was awarded the Charles Easterling Scholarship by the Mississippi Public Defenders Association.

The election and scholarship awarding was in Vicksburg at Public Defenders Spring Conference meeting on May 20.

Yow is a third year law student at Loyola University's Law School. He serves as president of law school student body.

Haas, a resident of Bay St. Louis, has been a Hancock County Public Defender for six years and a practicing attorney for 29 years.

Yow has assisted the Hancock County Public Defenders for the past two years.

Those attending the conference included; Haas' wife Wanda; Yow's wife Cheryl; Public Defender J.P. Compretta, and Public Defender James Tucker.

"One of the goals for the association is to work with the State Legislature to improve the Public Defenders system in the state," Haas said.

tance — in such areas as contracts, creating a business plan and marketing — to make it easier for more high-tech businesses to have a chance in entering the marketplace. The enterprise is to be replicated statewide.

Several firms have begun working with the MsET. Because of this, SSC Director Roy Estess commented, "The Mississippi Enterprise for Technology is already well on its way toward stimulating economic growth by providing supportive services to existing and start-up companies to capitalize on the technology available from Stennis and other federal laboratories across the nation."

Specifically, Estess explained, "The enterprise will help businesses increase productivity, improve existing products and services, develop new products, find needed markets, and realize greater competitiveness."

The board of directors of the MsET is comprised of representatives from state and local government, education organizations and the private sector. They are the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development; the Mississippi Research Consortium; SSC's Center of Higher Learning; the Mississippi State Board for Community and Junior Colleges; Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission; and Harrison County Development Commission.

The private sector participants are Calgon Corp.; Dupont Inc.; First Chemical Corp.; Hancock Bank; Mississippi Power Co.; and South Central Bell.

Sen. Tommy Gollott, chairman of the Mississippi Senate Committee on Economics Development said, "We in the legislature commend the partners of the Mississippi Enterprise for Technology who, together with the business community and the high caliber research activities at Mississippi's universities and federal laboratories, have had a single purpose to create new high-paying technology jobs for Mississippi."

"I'm proud to be associated with the high caliber of citizens that are the leaders of today's Mississippi," he added.

NASA and the Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command, also located at Stennis Space Center, have ex officio seats on the board of directors.

Overseeing the enterprise will be Dan Morrison, a native

Mississippian, who will serve at the MsET executive director, announced Dr. Jim Meredith.

Meredith is with SSC's Center of Higher Learning and is chairman of the MsET board of directors. Morrison's appointment came after a nationwide search which yielded 62 applicants.

The enterprise was established through the joint efforts of the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development, the Mississippi Research Consortium, Stennis Space Center, Mississippi Power Company, the Southern Technology Applications Center and various other state business and industry developers.

QUEVAS QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

On Monday those Americans who gave their lives for the freedoms of this country will be remembered. Some 1.1 million Americans have died in military service.

The cost of freedom is very expensive in terms of lives lost.

We all need to pause a few moments to remember those who gave their all, and if possible attend a Memorial Day service.

Many times we have short memories as to what our fellow Americans had to give in order for us to be free.

To have someone make the comment that it has been over 85 years since they strolled down Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis, is quite a statement to hear.

On Wednesday afternoon, I had an opportunity of speaking to such a person, she is Mrs. Gail Huntoon Buck of Biloxi.

Mrs. Buck's family resided on South Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis and she attended the first grade at Bay High in 1907-08.

She and her daughter, whom I met several years ago, stopped by to leave some old photos and also a copy of a "Bay High School Idea," which was published March, 1908.

The masthead indicates the school paper was founded November, 1907.

It was a broadsheet newspaper of four pages. In making typeface comparisons it was printed by The Sea Coast Echo and the pages were the same size. The paper notes that Editor Chas G. Moreau of The Sea Coast Echo was a school trustee.

Mrs. Buck, who was the eldest of three girls, had a letter published in the school paper. She comments on how her sister Rosemarie would like to come to school and she would like to bring her. She also said her sister likes to play horse too.

An advertisement in the newspaper was from Mrs. Buck's uncle, A.L. Stokoe, who resided next door (see photo on this page). Mrs. Buck's family home on Beach Boulevard was turned into a hotel in later years.

The ad said, "Don't Forget The Ice Man - When You need Coal, More Light or a Good Drink, A.L. Stokoe."

Mr. Stokoe was the owner of the ice plant, power plant and bottling works.

Other advertisements in the school paper included; Hancock County Bank; Merchants Bank; Otto Sange, Artistic Jeweler; Breath's For Shoes; Mrs. K. Edwards & Sons Lumber Company; Ansley Real Estate, Life and Accident Insurance; L.A. deMontluzin, Chemist & Pharmacist; Dr. J.A. Evans, Dentist; and E.W. Manar, Physician and Surgeon.

There was a short subject on flying in the publication.

"The aeroplane flying machine of Prof. A. Graham Bell flew 318 feet 11 inches at Hammondsport, New York. This is the record flight for a heavier-than-air machine in the United States. The "bird" flew from 10 to 20 feet above the ground."

The school paper's staff consisted of, Robt. S. Bailey, editor-in-chief; Miss Mary Cook, Miss May Edwards, Miss Rosetta McGinn, and Miss Mabel Cazeneuve, associate editors.

Forefathers of many of the students printed in the honor rolls and other areas of the publication still reside in Bay St. Louis.

By the way, Mrs. Buck was age six when this paper was printed. She told me she will be age 93 in November and still lives by herself.

I may comment on other parts of the publication in weeks to come.

I would like to urge all motorist to please drive carefully for the balance of Memorial Day weekend.

Traffic has really increased on our highways and roadways this weekend.

If you are traveling any distance, try to give yourself a little extra time.

There will probably be a lot of motorists who will be rushing to get home, so you will have to be looking out for the other drivers.

I hope that each and everyone of you will have a safe Memorial Day.

Stokoe home

The home at right was the residence of the Albert Stokoe's on Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis and taken in 1908. (Current residence of Michael Stokoe Sr.) Those in photo are from right, Albert Stokoe, unknown, Mary Stokoe holding Rosemary Huntoon, Gail Huntoon Buck, Dora Glenn and unknown. The Huntoon's were neighbors in house at left and Dora Glenn was a cousin who helped raise the three Huntoon girls after their mother's death. Stokoe was the owner of the Bay Light Company, Bay Ice Company and Bottling Works. The Huntoon's father, Frank Huntoon was a brother-in-law of Albert Stokoe. IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Taylor vows to oppose any health care plan for abortions

As Congress takes up one of the thorniest health reform issues, I was rather surprised by a full-page advertisement in the New York Times that read, "Members of Congress' telephones will be ringing off their hooks as pro-choice Americans from coast to coast call in to say that universal health care isn't universal if it doesn't provide coverage for reproductive health services."

My first reaction was, "Who are you kidding?" While the ad did not specifically refer to abortion per se, it is safe to say that "reproductive services" language could be widely interpreted as including abortion. If that isn't enough, one freshman member says he's willing to consider an amendment that would spell it out.

I must say that I have made it perfectly clear to the Administration and my colleagues in the House that I will oppose any health plan that would spend tax dollars on abortions. I will also oppose any abortion coverage that could be included in private insurance plans.

It is no secret that I am pro-life and have consistently opposed federal funding for abortions. I feel that abortions should not be permitted except in cases of rape, incest or to save the life of the mother. However, even in those instances, federal funds should not be made available. A few years ago, Citizen magazine, a pro-life publication of Focus on the Family, included me in an article on pro-life leaders. As Citizen stated, one of my first actions as a Congressman was a pro-life vote against a bill that would have made federal Medicaid funds available for abortions.

Since then I have voted against giving U.S. funds to the United Nations Population Fund and the International Planned Parenthood Federation. Unknown to many Americans, both international groups support abortion policies in other countries.

And most recently, I have voted to prohibit the District of Columbia from spending its funds on abortion and have supported regulations that forbid abortion counseling in family planning clinics.

I agree with the thousands of Mississippians who have written, or called, or just stopped me on the street, to say that they feel that our country is facing a moral crisis.

There is no doubt that the New York Times ad was an attempt to deceive Americans in believing that Congressional offices were flooded with calls by supporters of "reproductive health services." While in reality, I get maybe one pro-abortion call a week.

Memorial Day 1994

As a 21-gun salute reverberated in the distance, 250,000 citizens crossing all generations braved a humid, rain-threatened May afternoon 10 years ago to welcome home an American hero. We never know his name, his face or his background, only that he had confronted the horrors of war for each of us and had offered up his very life because his country asked.

The solemn three-mile procession from the Capitol Plaza to Arlington National Cemetery was the last leg of a journey for a hero of the Vietnam War who was entombed with his counterparts from other wars. It was a journey for America as well.

The horse-drawn caisson bore not only a hero's remains but the hopes of a people who desperately needed to bind the wounds of controversy and hostility. Perhaps from God's loving embrace he can now see the solace and reconciliation his life and death brought to an entire nation. That homecoming was a wonderful example of America's best assets — its heart and its memory.

America likes anniversaries, and none are so poignant as those which recall our heritage, its glory and toll. America is strong and resilient, and what makes us so is our unparalleled ability and desire to remember what got us here, to embrace our past, to commemorate the selflessness and sacrifice of those upon whose very lives rests the foundation of freedom.

That is why there is a Memorial Day. That is why 218 years into this remarkable odyssey of our we still place flags on veterans' gravesites, we still make speeches in the town square, we still recount the battles, and we still pay silent and public tribute to those who stepped well beyond the lines of fear, doubt and self-preservation to give us security and prosperity.

Four thousand miles from Arlington National Cemetery, the surf now gently laps at the beaches of northern France upon which one of the defining moments of world history was written. The serenity is a marked contrast to the June day 50 years ago when a massive amphibious assault — D-Day — signaled the beginning of the end of World War II. It will be my privilege to lead a U.S. House of Representatives delegation to Normandy to participate in the commemoration of this event and the tribute to heroes of another generation.

On these upcoming anniversaries, episodes of heroism will be recounted, prayers will be recited, and we will remember not just the casualties of Omaha Beach, but those of the Ia Drang Valley, Chosin, Argonne, Dahrhan, Mogadishu and a thousand other sites where genuine patriotism rose about the din of battle and lingers still.

It was America that lined the streets of Washington ten years ago, it is America that will revisit the shores of France, and it is America whose collective memory continues to cling fast to the adversity and gallantry of the past.

If there is any one characteristic that sets us above the rest, it is that we venerate those who have defended our principles and honor the memory of the 1.1 million who have died in military service. This Memorial Day please do your share to maintain and keep strong our most important tradition.

Bay High DECA students, Jamie Schaefer, Steven Kennedy, Dawna Smith and Amy Kennedy enjoyed some sightseeing in Niagara Falls, Canada, while attending the recent National DECA competition. Sponsor, Jane Lamb said, "I am so proud to have had these four students represent the Bay-Waveland School System so well. Taking four state winners to the National Level was quite exciting and rewarding. We thank the administration and the school board for their support and encouragement during our entire journey toward this goal."

Job search frustrating

For recent college graduates without jobs, the summer may look like a long, hot journey of pounding the pavement with resumes in hand.

Even though the job market has improved since 1993, finding a job is still a frustrating and competitive endeavor, says a University of Mississippi career counselor.

"Companies across the board are showing a 1 percent increase in hiring," said Pam Belcher, director of the Career Center on the Oxford campus.

"This is a change over the last five years, but students should still expect to spend three to nine months looking for a job."

Small businesses, as opposed to larger ones such as IBM or Texaco, are where most of the growth is taking place. Students tend to overlook small businesses because they are not as familiar with them, said Belcher. Larger companies are now downsizing and hiring fewer new employees.

The service industry, which encompasses the health and leisure markets, is one that is doing particularly well now. Those graduates who have degrees in hotel management, public administration or exercise science have a strong background for this field.

To find these jobs, Belcher suggests graduates look for an industry that realizes health and fitness programs are an important part of their employees' lives.

"There are big bucks in handling health-tip mailouts, and in being a company's health field officer," the Career Center director said. "Graduates should realize that this field is a viable option for them."

Another area showing growth is telecommunications. With the emergence of the Information Superhighway, companies are hiring employees for technical and communications positions.

Job markets that are showing little growth are education, business and banking and finance, Belcher said.

In addition to having a high grade-point average, graduates who have strong work and leadership experience are more likely than others to find jobs.

"We look for well rounded graduates who have good leadership skills and work experience, retail or not," said Derinda Phillips, manager of college relations for McRae's Department Store in Jackson. "I have never brought back anyone for a second interview who did not have work experience."

Phillips said she also looks for graduates who are decisive, aggressive and flexible. They must be mature, have good communication skills and present themselves well. Graduates with liberal arts backgrounds do just as well as those with business degrees.

"We look at all majors because we want graduates with broad backgrounds," Phillips said.

lips said. "If someone has the basic skills it takes to be a manager, then you cannot tell a difference in his or her major."

Those graduates who do not have work or leadership experience can follow a few tips to improve their chances of finding a job. Belcher suggests getting resumes in top condition, being diligent in job search efforts and, most importantly, setting up and using a job network.

"A network means establishing job contacts with friends of the family, fellow church members, job connections, etc.," the Ole Miss director said.

Phillips has noticed two trends with recent college graduates. One is that many graduates have no sense of direction for their careers, and the other is that if they do have a direction, it is not focused.

"Some of the biggest problems I see are that graduates are waiting until the last minute to find a job, and then they are not presenting themselves well in interviews," Phillips said. "They are also looking in too many directions. That is typical of the generation."

Graduates who are having problems finding jobs can use the Career Center even after graduation, Belcher said. Graduates who registered with the center while at Ole Miss can use its services a year after graduation. Those who did not register before graduation must pay a $40 fee.

A loved teacher

Miss Laura Miller is surrounded by her final class of fifth graders at Gulfview Elementary, as she retired after 43 years of teaching. Her students, with the help of their parents, prepared a surprise retirement party for her Wednesday. Miss Miller, as a teacher, was referred to as being from the 'old school' by school administrators. Comments such as, "She was an outstanding teacher, a traditional teacher, gave her students those little extras, adored by her students, she placed emphasis on manners, students learned poetry, her students were the most polite in school, parents wanted their kids in her class, I have never seen a better teacher, etc.," were heard around the school from parents and administrators. A party was held in which students shared food, refreshments, candy and cake with Miss Miller. An elated Miss Miller repeated several times to her class of 26 students, "I have to say that you have been my best class ever and I will always remember you." Miss Miller spent 14 years in the Gulfview system. Prior to that, she was seven years at St. Clare's in Waveland and this was after retiring from the New Orleans school system. BREWER'S WORLD

By Jimmie Brewer

Allright, all you literate folks out there, it's time to wake up and smell the grass clippings. It's time to throw up the Venetian blinds and let the sunshine in.

This week makes my first anniversary in this great community on the sunny Gulf Coast. I got to tell ya, you mud-bug, head sucking Southerners got quite a place down here.

I've been fortunate enough to sample several different locations in my 34 years, including the mountains of Alaska, the history and beauty of London, England, and the gorgeous lakes of Branson, Missouri. But, I've never been more contented or thrilled than I have since moving here last June.

After all, look what this place has to offer: BEACHES! Where else have you been that's had two new five-mile, white sand beaches constructed in the last year.

You know the ones I'm talking about. The beach that was recently completed on Beach Boulevard and the beach they're still working on that runs parallel to that killer Highway 603 that connects I-10 and Hwy. 90. The latter beach is coming along nicely and will be ready for sun worshippers as soon as they move an ocean next to it.

Look what else you have. How about MARDI GRAS! Wowiee, was that ever an experience! Never have I had such a great time. I mean come on, it's not often grown men and women battle small children for plastic beads that are launched from anything that moves.

And where else can seemingly responsible adults wear colorful costumes and drink themselves into another century? Who do you know that eats cakes with babies in them?

Ahhh, what a life.

FOOD! You all have without a doubt the funnest food in the world to eat. This was my first year for suckin' heads and I can tell ya. I am now a bonafide crawfish head sucker. Not only do they taste great, but they are an absolute riot to eat.

And po-boys. The first one I ate was at Mary's Eatery in the Bay. It consisted of two pieces of bread and approximately two and a half tons of fried shrimp. It took me six months to finish it.

Another first for me this year is golf. I have accomplished much in 12 short months. I have lost 7,300 golf balls, nailed two squirrels and one human, torn up enough fairway to carpet the Mojave Desert and have thrown my 9-iron 75 yards down the driving range.

However, the game has taught me to be fairly creative with language. I have invented some cuss words that are entire sentences long. I'm convinced that insane asylums are full of former golfers.

I think I'm most impressed with the people of the South. You folks are a proud people, and you stick together. I have never heard any of you complain about your community. I felt very welcome here and have made a lot of new friends.

Thanks to everyone, especially Mary, for making my first year here very special!

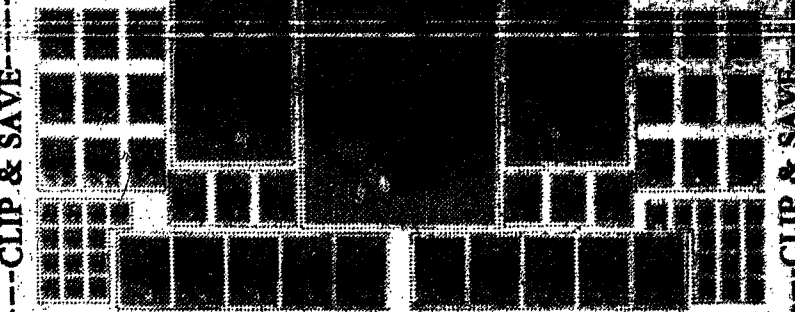

Praise for do-gooders this week goes out to all you people who make life on this earth a fun place to exist.

That's it kids, go out and do something nice for nature. Peace.

Unemployment rate edges down

Spring planting and growth in industry nudged Mississippi's jobless rate down three-tenths of a percentage point in April.

The rate dropped from 7 percent in March to 6.7 percent in April, according to information from the Mississippi Employment Security Commission. In April 1993, the rate stood at 6.3 percent.

"Manufacturing jobs were almost unchanged since the previous month," said Raiford Crews, chief of labor market information for MESCC. "However, service producing industries added 3,800 new jobs over the month. Trade, with 2,100 new jobs, and entertainment, with 2,000, accounted for most of this growth."

Total employment rose by 7,600 persons over March and by 12,300 over one year ago. There were 3,100 fewer Mississippians unemployed during April than in March, but 6,500 more than one year ago.

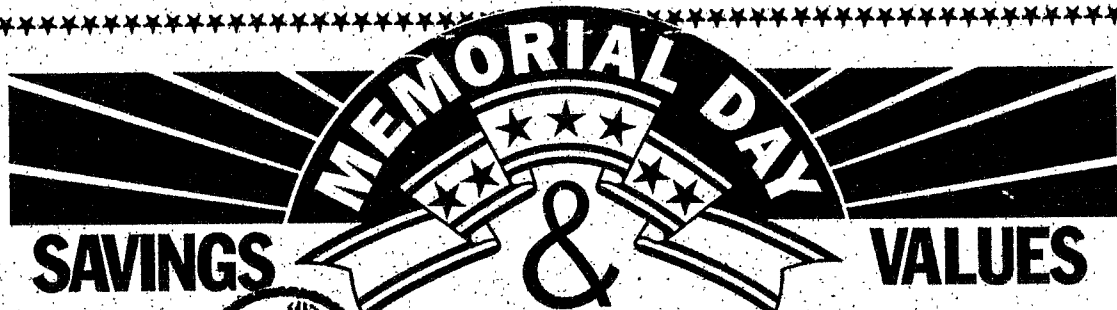

Overall, goods producing industries have grown by 4,600 jobs since April 1993. During the same period, service producing industries have increased by 27,900 jobs. Manufacturing jobs decreased by 200 during April but increased by 1,400 over one year ago.

"Even though the number of manufacturing jobs was down over the month, the number of hours worked and the average weekly pay increased. Both indicators signal more activity," Crews said.

The service producing industries that contributed most to the yearly increase are trade with 8,000 new jobs; health services with 2,500 jobs; government with 4,500, and casinos with 11,000.

Casino-related employment will continue to grow throughout the year, based on announcements of new openings in those areas which are approved for dockside gambling, Crews said.

"Mississippi's economy should continue to grow with only seasonal fluctuations influencing the unemployment rate. Expect rates to begin rising in May as schools move into their summer schedules," he said.

Fireman uses hose to subdue fire

Fire!

BY CHARLEE MARSHALL

Hancock County Fire Marshal Richard Pate commended area fire department personnel for making a "great stop on the building" after flames were spotted at the Antique Arcade Shopping Centre on Court Street Thursday night around 10.

A fire that could have developed into a major catastrophe was snuffed out by Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Pass Christian Fire Departments. Its age and construction was a key factor as fireman battled the blaze in the upper story of the business.

"By rights, the building should have burned to the ground," Pate remarked.

Richard Dry, Deputy State Fire Marshal from Gulfport, said the fire will be considered from "unknown origin" until further investigation determines its cause.

The antique arcade building is about 80 or 90 years old and its framework constructed of longleaf heart pine - solid as a rock. The former headquarters of Woodmen of the World, it one time housed a dance hall on its second floor.

Firefighters survey situation

The old building withstood the ravages of time and also the fierce winds and rain of Hurricane Camille although every window in the place had to be replaced when it was over.

The building's caretaker called the fire department to assist in putting out the fire after he apparently tried to fight the blaze himself, firemen said.

The cooperative firefighting venture between the three departments took about an hour and one half, but many of them remained until after 10 a.m. Friday morning to see that no new blazes resumed.

The extent of damage is not known at this time.

WEDDINGS ENGAGEMENTS

Hotard-McDougal

Mr. and Mrs. Myres McDougal

Tammy Lynn Hotard, of Waveland, became the bride of Myres McDougal, of New Orleans, in a 6 p.m. ceremony on Feb. 14, in the courtyard of the Dauphine Orleans. A reception was held at Chappy's. The rehearsal dinner was enjoyed at Arnauds.

The bride is the daughter of Gene and Teresa Stanbro of Waveland, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther L. McDougal of New Orleans.

Judge Steven Plotkin officiated at the wedding.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose for her wedding a tea-length designer gown of ivory silk encrusted with pearls.

Lela C. Neff was the bride's attendant.

Jay Forman served the groom as best man.

The couple spent a week honeymooning in Cancun. They now live in the Garden District of New Orleans.

Washington-Cleggette

Mrs. Sylvia L. Charles announces the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Deirdra Ann Washington, to George Cleggette Sr., son of Mrs. Harriett Hamilton and George Freeman of New Orleans. Deirdra is also the daughter of the late Morvon Washington Sr.

The bride-elect graduated from Bay High School and attended Dillard University. She is a licensed practical nurse.

The prospective bridegroom graduated from Abramson High School and attended the University of New Orleans. He works as a registered nurse for Charity Hospital in New Orleans.

The wedding will take place at 6 p.m. Saturday, June 4 at St. James Major on Gentilly Blvd. in New Orleans. A reception will follow at Eastover Country Club.

Family members and friends are invited to attend.

Deirdra Ann Washington

Peres-Tarver

Mr. and Mrs. William Tarver Sr.

Martha Ann Alexander Peres became the bride of William Frank Tarver Sr. in a noon ceremony May 7 in Bay St. Louis. Judge Dodson officiate at the ceremony. It was held at Bayou Phillips Community Center. Live music was provided by Mike Grimm-Kid Country.

The bride is the daughter of Claudia M. Alexander of Bay St. Louis and the groom is the son of Lela Peterson of Bay St. Louis.

The bride chose to wear western attire in country blue and white boots for her wedding.

Her attendant was Mary Tarver.

Frank Tarver Jr. was best man.

The couple lives in Bay St. Louis.

Abridal shower was given by Mary Tarver and Jennifer Haskel on May 5.

Scientist receives award

Diamondhead resident, Dr. Brenda J. Little, was one of four Naval Research Laboratory (NRL) employees from Stennis Space Center who received prestigious publications awards during a ceremony in Washington, D.C. March 11.

The Alan Berman Research Publication Award was presented to Dr. Little, Supervisory Research Chemist in NRL's Microbiologically Influenced Corrosion Section of the Oceanography Division by NRL's Commanding Officer Capt. Paul G. Gaffney, II, United States Navy for her publication "Sulfur Isotope Fractionation by Sulfate-Reducing Bacteria in Corrosion Products." Mrs. Patricia A. Wagner, an oceanographer in Dr. Little's section, co-authored the paper.

Family reunion can create bonds

As our society has become more mobile, distance has rendered the large, close-knit extended family of the past an anachronism.

However, scattered families don't have to remain distant and out of touch with each other.

If you haven't seen Old Aunt Mildred in years, or you're wondering what happened to Cousin Ed, consider planning a reunion.

Such an event often works to pull people together, reestablishing family bonds, as well as creating common memories that can be passed to future generations.

Patricia Huggins, director of special events at the University of Mississippi, offers several suggestions to keep in mind when planning a family reunion.

"The most important part of any event like this is the planning. If you do some thoughtful planning early on, then hopefully you won't be running around taking care of last-minute problems and can enjoy the party," she said.

Huggins advises scheduling the reunion many months ahead of time, giving everyone time to put it on their calendars.

Also, when you are notifying the participants, it's handy to have some form of family tree sketched out so you don't forget someone. To save long-distance phone charges, identify a few key family members and then ask them to gather addresses of a few relatives they know and send the addresses to you. Notify the rest by mail. Requesting an RSVP can help you get an idea of how many are coming.

When selecting a site for your reunion, Huggins recommends choosing a location near a major airport if some will be traveling long distances. If you plan to use a hotel, negotiate with the sales office, restaurant or the caterer to see if you can get room discounts or group food rates.

Whether you choose to gather in a family member's backyard or at a state park, the Ole Miss events director advises keeping the preparations and decor as simple as possible, since visiting should be the main focus of the event. Use disposable plates and utensils and plan an easy menu.

"Take advantage of the season. The summer months offer so many choices — like grilling hamburgers or chicken, or preparing fresh fruits and homemade ice cream — that are delicious, yet simple to prepare," she said.

"Also don't be afraid to ask for help. Delegation is the key to any successful reunion. Everybody can do something. Even little children can pick up trash."

If you have a pot-luck dinner, be sure to have one person in charge to coordinate who will bring what. "You don't want to have 10 bowls of potato salad and no desserts," said Huggins.

After you work out the details of the event, then you can focus on the fun part — the renewing of old ties. A little creative planning can help make the reunion a special time that reflects the common bonds you share as a family. Consider these ideas:

- When you notify everyone, ask them to recall funny or interesting family stories from the past during the intervening months. At the reunion, ask them to share one or two of them. Encourage older members to pass on oral history, and get these reminiscences on videotape.

- Provide an area with a large bulletin board or poster so family members can display old photos, and other family memorabilia.

- Ask everyone to bring a favorite recipe to create a family cookbook.

- If you've developed a master list of addresses, make enough copies for every family so everyone can keep in touch. If not, provide index cards and pencils so they can exchange addresses.

- Be sure to have a camera and assign someone to get a shot of everyone who attends. New generations can laugh at your funny clothes and haircuts at future family reunions.

DECA shows appreciation

1993-94 Co-op Employer Banquet

Bay High School's DECA recently held an appreciation banquet at Annie's Restaurant in Pass Christian to thank 26 local businesses for their support of the co-op program.

Sixty eight students and their employers attended the ceremonies. Superintendent of Bay-Waveland School District, Paul Tisdale, and principal Sandra Prator participated in the program. "The turnout was fantastic and Miss Annie's hospitality and meal perfect" said Jane Lamb, Co-op Coordinator of DECA.

Co-op is a work-study program in which students learn job skills and receive specialized training in various occupations while attending high school.

Companies recognized included Analysis and Technology, Bayou Caddy Jubilee Casino, Bay-Waveland Mini-Storage, Burger King, Casino Magic, Delchamps, Eckerd Drugs, Freds, Hairworks, Jitney Jungle, Mike Jordan, K Mart, McDonald's, National Foods, Peoples Bank, Pizza Hut, Princess Shoppe, Redditt Pool and Spa, Scott Favre Contractor, Shoneys, Subway, Taconi's Hardware, Video Vue, Walmart, West Building Materials and Winn-Dixie.

Companies interested in hiring a student worker through this program may contact Jane Lamb, vocational coordinator at 467-6023 or 467-6611.

Tommy Lafrance, assistant manager Winn Dixie, Barbara Miller, Shaun Brockmeier and Cristal Mitchell.

Lt. David Sellier, special guest and DECA chaperone, Jane Ann Fahey of the Princess Shoppe and Amy Kennedy.

Lisa Hawkins, Tamika Hawkins, Deidra Vontoure and Sharon Jackson, manager of McDonalds.

Ashe attends institute

Betty L. Ashe, Bay St. Louis resident and associate degree nursing instructor at the Jefferson Davis Campus of Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College, recently participated in the Southeastern Institute for Faculty Training (SIFT).

The purpose of the institutes is to prepare faculty members to serve as leaders in providing training in the area of early intervention.

Ashe was one of 15 interdisciplinary faculty selected by the state of Mississippi. She participated in a four-day training institute May 21-25 in North Carolina. She will now provide training to other Mississippi professionals on aspects of early intervention.

Selection of faculty members was based on professional expertise, knowledge about early intervention and willingness to serve as state training resource.

Local doctor retains membership in AAFP

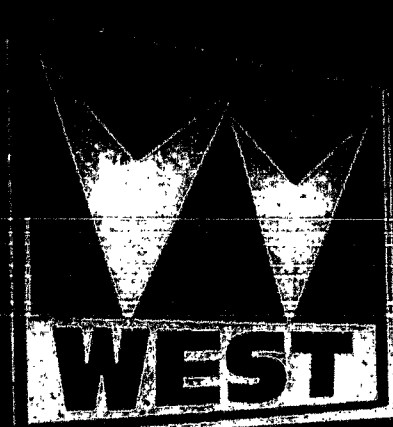

Dr. David Franklin Roberts of Diamondhead, has completed continuing medical education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP), the national association of family doctors.

AAFP members are required to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years.

The AAFP, which has more than 75,000 members, is one of the largest medical specialty organizations in the country. It was the first national medical group to require members to keep up with medical advancements through regular continuing medical education.

Dr. Roberts has been an active AAFP member since 1990. As a family physician, he is qualified to work in all major areas of health care and trained to treat patients of all ages for the vast majority of health problems.

Storytelling Festival June 9-11 in Poplarville

Once again, Poplarville will become what Hattie B. Gentry, president of the Poplarville Storytelling Guild, calls "the storytelling place" as the community gears up for the second annual Mississippi Blueberry Jubilee Storytelling Festival on the campus of Pearl River Community College June 9-11.

And once again the Mississippi Arts Commission has allocated funds for the event to match the funds and efforts of the local sponsoring agencies, the Poplarville PTA, The Blueberry Jubilee Council, Pearl River community College and the Poplarville Storytelling Guild.

Last year was billed as the first-ever Mississippi Blueberry Jubilee Storytelling Festival, and judging from its success, it won't be the last by a long shot. Festival director and president of the Guild, Hattie Gentry, said of last year's festival: "It was a wonderful success that surpassed my wildest expectations."

Judging from the line-up of celebrity storytellers, 1994 will again reel in participants from all around the state and beyond. It is an event that is rapidly becoming a national draw.

Donald Davis, nationally acclaimed as one of America's premiere storytellers headlines the festival. From his native North Carolina, Davis brings with him a tradition steeped in the best of his Appalachian heritage.

Intensely personal, Davis has the ability to tap the emotions as only a master teller can do.

Finley Stewart hails from Krum, Texas, where he is a driving force behind both the Texas Storytelling Festival and the Texas Storytelling Association. With his friend, James Howard, Finley embarked on storytelling as a means to achieve their educational goals at North Texas State University, and now it has become a way of life.

Jeff Miller from St. Louis, Mo., showed up on his own steam for the first-ever Mississippi Blueberry Jubilee Storytelling Festival to see what his old friends Hattie B. Gentry and Mary Etta Moody of Poplarville were pulling together in Mississippi and to lend his support.

Mississippi's own Dianne Williams is new to the region as a storyteller. A native of Newark, N.J., she has made her home in Madison for the past seven years with her husband Ray and her children.

She shares literary tales, spiritual narratives and poetry.

Guest tellers for the festival are Mary Etta Moody and Joe Welsey, popular folk tellers from Poplarville; Josie Roberts from Purvis, Dana Nelson from Lucedale, Reed Motley from Hattiesburg; Chris Vinsonhaler from Ocean Springs, Ben Woods from Jackson, Douglas Haynes and Rebecca Jernigan from Oxford; Sara McDaris from Huntsville, Ala., Judy Lovelady from Destrehan, La., Mary LeCompte from Lake Charles, La., and Irma and Rocky Rockwell from Bristol, Va.

For more information, contact Hattie Gentry at (601) 795-6153 day or 795-8378 evening.

Story teller

Storyteller Mary Etta Moody from Poplarville will be one of 16 experienced tellers sharing stories at the Blueberry Jubilee Storytelling Festival June 9-11 in Poplarville.

Kids' Hot-Books theme of library summer program

The Hancock County Library System's 1994 Summer Reading Program, is still open through Saturday, June 4.

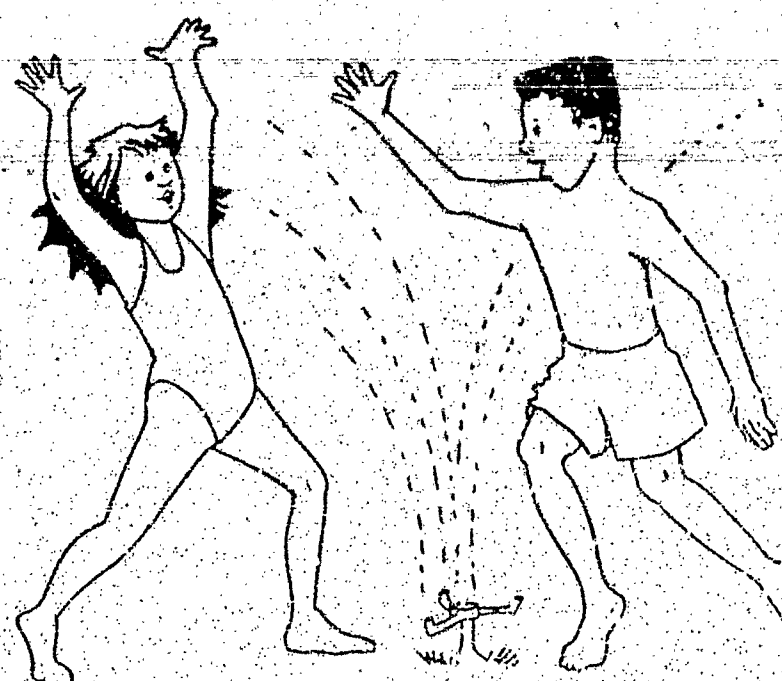

Any child or young adult, pre-school age through eighth grade, may participate in the program. Children who have not yet learned to read may participate by having a parent read to them.

The program will be held at all three branches of the Hancock County Library System — the Kiln Library on Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.; the City-County Library in Bay St. Louis Wednesday at 10:30 a.m.; and the Waveland Library on Fridays at 10:30 a.m.

Due to the City-County Library being under construction and in temporary quarters, programs for that branch will be held at the Coast Electric Power Association Auditorium on Main Street in Bay St. Louis. Books for checkout and reading records will be available at the library's temporary location at 306 Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis.

Participants must visit the branch of their choice at least four times and check out at least six books between May 23 and June 29. A reading record will be provided each child.

A certificate and goodie bag will be presented each participant who completes the program.

Awards will be presented the week of July 5.

Activities include a puppet show by the Puppet Arts Theatre of Jackson, face painting by Victory the Clown, a visit by Raggedy Ann and Andy, Tony Eccles making sculpture, a film festival and a visit from the NASA space program.

In order to register, children must come to the branch of their choice, complete their reading record, set their goal and confirm that their parents have a current library card. Card holders must be 18 years old and have necessary identification.

For further information call Janice Parrott at the City-County Library, 467-5282; Sandra Ladner, Kiln Library, 255-1724; or Evelyn Nicaise, Waveland Library, 467-9240.

INDEPENDENT AUDITORS' REPORT

Honorable Board of Mayor and Aldermen City of Waveland, Mississippi

We have audited the accompanying general purpose financial statements of the City of Waveland, Mississippi, as of and for the Except as disclosed in the following paragraph, we conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, the United States, and the provisions of Office of Management and Budget Circular A-133. Audits of state and local governments to these standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the general purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The City of Waveland does not maintain adequate subsidiary records documenting the existence and valuation of the assets included in the General Fixed Assets Account Group. In the absence of subsidiary records we are unable to and do not express an opinion on the General Fixed Assets Account Group.

In our opinion, except for the effects of the matter discussed in the preceding paragraph, the general purpose financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the City of Waveland, Mississippi, at September 30, 1993, and the results of its operations and the changes in cash flows of its proprietary fund types for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the general purpose financial statements taken as a whole. The combining, individual fund and account group financial statements and schedules listed in the table of contents are presented for the purpose of additional analysis and are not a required part of the general purpose financial statements of the City of Waveland, Mississippi. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the general purpose financial statements and, in our opinion, except for the effects of the paragraph, such information is fairly presented in all material respects in relation to the general purpose financial statements taken as a whole.

FORE! IT'S TEE TIME!

The American Heart Association's 10th Annual Golf Festival was "a huge success with 234 participants and a wonderful donation from the Bayou Caddy's Jubilee" said Colleen Read, regional director of the AHA, who helped organize the event along with Dr. Jim and Bette Flood and Herb Larson, coordinator. Honorary chairman was Mac Casse. The total raised for AHA was $12,500.

The festival was held Saturday, May 21 at Diamondhead Country Club. The format was set up for four person teams. Tournament entry fee was $65 per person with tax-deductible donations going to the Hancock County American Heart Association. Refreshments and sandwiches were served at the country club and hospitality homes along the course.

Award presentations were made at Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino following the tournament. Prizes included gift certificates in various amounts.

There was also a drawing for a set of golf clubs and golf bags.

Participants included: Bob Gustin, Bob Emry—first gross, 53, with 17 birdies and one eagle to his credit; Mary Hays and John Hays.

Denise Nutting, Jay Conway, — second gross, 57; Bryan Smith and Stewart Nutting.

Laura Moore, Ray Giovengo, — third gross, 58 and score card playoff, Jeremy Ladner and Casey Swanson.

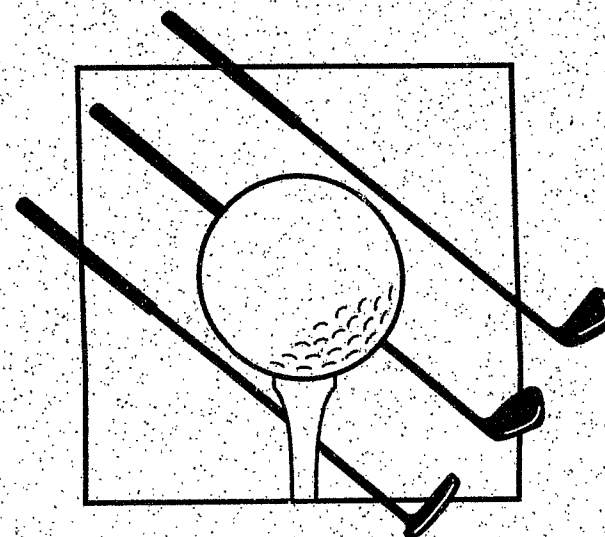

Lloyd Nicaud, Francisco Colon — fourth gross, 58, Mark Sabins and Scott Favre.

Harold Rainey, Murray Palmer — first net, Frank Jerome and Ronnie Bankston.

Ted Roberts, Mike Dickson, — second net, Mike Pennington and Buddy Palazzo.

Ralph Baldwin, Faye Baldwin — third net, Jack Capdan and Sharon Capdan.

Jimmy Oustalet, Mike Matthews — fourth net, Tim Wold and Tom Isham.

Summer safety tips

Remember a grandmother who told you, "Be safe, not sorry?" And how many have said the same thing or something similar to your own children?

With violent crimes in the newspaper headlines and on the television news every day, it may seem harder and harder to ensure your safety and that of your family. It's true that no one has absolute control over his or her own safety, but there are some steps everyone can take to minimize risks," said Glenda Crump, director of training and communication at Developing Resources for Education in America, Inc. (DREAM), a Jackson-based national non-profit organization.

Crump says that summer is the right time to review some safety guidelines:

"Warm weather drives Mississippians outside in search of recreation, from hunting and water sports to tennis and other outdoor activities.

More accidents and violent crimes also occur as the temperature rises through July, August and September, she said.

"The dry summer months also increase the danger of fires. No fire should ever be left unattended, and proper fire safety should be practiced."

Starting with personal safety, here are a few tips:

- Trust your instincts. If a warning signal goes off inside you, don't ignore it. Remember, there's safety in numbers. Making noise attracts help.

- Always be alert and look confident. Criminals are more likely to attack people who look vulnerable.

- Never fight with a mugger or robber.

- Avoid dark streets, parking lots or secluded areas. When approaching your car, make sure no one is hiding in the shadows. Always check the back seat before entering.

- Let someone know where you're going and what time to expect your return.

- Never hitchhike. Rapists and other criminals see hitchhikers as ready-made victims.

Water safety is a particularly important recreational safety topic. It never hurts to hear some things again:

- Never use alcohol or other drugs. They don't mix with water. Every year alcohol and other drugs cause serious injuries and deaths during water sports.

- Don't swim or boat alone. When boating, always wear a life jacket.

- Observe marked boating channels. If areas are off limits, it's for a reason.

- Never dive into water without first checking the depth and underwater conditions. These do not always remain constant.

- Watch for snakes. They are not usually aggressive, but they will attack when they feel threatened.

If you're planning outdoor exercise such as walking, jogging or other aerobic activities, you should:

- Begin with a warm-up and end with a cool-down.

- Listen to your body for signals of pain.

- Wear loose-fitting clothing — light colored and reflective if you are exercising at night.

- Drink lots of water.

- Wait about two hours between eating and strenuous exercise.

- Don't take shortcuts when it comes to proper equipment. It doesn't have to be the most expensive brand, but good equipment can protect you from injuries.

- Consult with a health care professional before beginning an exercise program.

"These are only a few tips from selected areas of a complete personal safety program. There's a lot more information out there. Just because we can't guarantee our safety doesn't mean we shouldn't do our part. As is the case with alcohol, tobacco and other drugs, prevention is the first line of defense in personal safety," Crump said.

For more information, call 1-800-23DREAM.

It's hurricane season: boaters should prepare

The 1994 hurricane season officially begins June 1. Recreational boats are especially vulnerable and BOAT/U.S. (Boat Owners Association of The United States) is advising boat owners to develop a plan of action to secure their vessels now, before a storm hits.

As many as 10 tropical storms, six of which could develop into hurricanes, have been predicted for this season. Last year, there were eight tropical storms and four hurricanes.

BOAT/U.S. estimates that since 1989, the damage caused to recreational boats by three major hurricanes — Hugo, Bob and Andrew — exceeded $360 million.

While there are no guarantees when a boat is secured for a hurricane, the probability of damage can be reduced considerably with advance preparation. Here's what boat owners should do right now:

- Go shopping for supplies you'll need to secure your boat — extra lines, chafe protection, fenders, anchors, swivels, shackles, duct tape and port plugs. As a hurricane approaches, these essential items are usually in short supply.

- Storage ashore is generally the best protection, but if you won't be able to take your boat out of the water, find a snug harbor you can move it to. Make a "dry run" on the route you'll use to get there.

If a hurricane is headed your way, here's what to do:

- Use the duct tape and plugs to seal hatches, ports, windows, doors and vents.

- At a dock, make the lines as long as possible, add the extra chafe protection, set the extra anchors and install the extra fenders.

- Take electronics, other valuable equipment and important documents off the boat.

- Finally, go home! No one should stay aboard a boat during a hurricane.

For a free copy of a BOAT/U.S. guide to preparing boats for a hurricane, call 1-800-274-4877. For the latest official hurricane advisories from the National Hurricane Center, call 1-900-933-2638. Calls cost 98 cents a minute and average three minutes.

Mississippi will host railroad safety workshop

Mississippi will host an eight-state regional railroad workshop June 8-10 at the Broadwater Hotel, Biloxi.

This Federal Highway Administration fifth annual Region IV Federal/State/Railroad Workshop will cover topics such as policies for grade crossing closure; Operation Lifesaver, a National Safety Council effort to reduce deaths, injuries and property loss resulting from motor vehicle-train collisions; and innovations in signalization and safety management systems. It will bring together representatives from Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Newton McCormick Jr., construction officer engineer, Mississippi Department of Transportation, and chairman of the workshop, said that "the chance of death or serious injury in a motor vehicle-train collision is 40 times greater than for other types of highway crashes."

Donald O'Cain, executive director of the Department of Public Safety's Division of Public Safety Planning, said that "virtually all of these collisions could be avoided if motorists would use common sense at railroad crossings."

He noted that "some drivers pay little attention to the hazards at the crossings. They cross the tracks day after day without seeing a train, and the advance warning sign and the X on the crossbuck post become just a part of the scenery, familiar and unalarming. Drivers should recognize that train schedules change.

"Motorists should look for the round, advance railroad warning sign, slow down, look both ways and listen," O'Cain said. "They should pay particular attention to the sign below the crossbuck indicating that there is more than one track. When there are two or more tracks, don't be too anxious to proceed when one train has passed. This may put you in the path of another train."

"Some crossings have octagonal red and white stop signs," he noted. "If there are flashing lights or a stop sign, don't do anything less than stop. Don't proceed until you're certain no train is coming."

O'Cain also warned motorists, who have started over a crossing when lights begin flashing or the gates begin to move down, to keep going. "The warning signals allow enough time to drive over the crossing before the train comes," he said. "No gate on the other side will block your lane. Don't stop and try to back up; your vehicle may stall."

He cautioned drivers not to drive onto a railroad track until they're certain they can drive all the way across. "Be sure," he said, "that the traffic ahead of you will not stop and box you in on the track."

O'Cain also cautioned about overdriving the vehicle's headlights. "You may suddenly see a train when you're going too fast and are too close to stop," he noted. "About one of every four crossing accidents involves a vehicle being driven into a train."

"A railroad crossing is not a place to gamble," he emphasized. "Factors such as vehicles stalling and the driver misjudging the distance and speed of the train enter the picture. The best advice when a train is approaching is to stop and wait for it to pass."

CONSUMER UPDATE

Picking your financial pros

By Janet K. Lukens, MBA, CFP
Consumer Management Specialist

When introducing a local financial planner to a financial management class, I counted his 17 degrees and designations with awe. I marveled that one person had this many symbols behind his name.

If the list daunted someone familiar with the designations, it is no wonder that those outside the field of financial planning get confused when choosing a financial advisor.

How does one choose the right advisor or advisors? First of all, it is important to remember that no one person is an expert in all areas of financial planning. A team approach usually results in the most comprehensive and effective plan.

Many local financial planners, including the one I introduced, associate with large firm(s) which provide access to other legal and investment experts.

In any case, beware of the planner who immediately begins pushing you to drop CPAs, attorneys or insurance representatives for "one-stop" shopping at their place of business.

Before you begin the search, assess your own needs. Are you looking for one service such as tax preparation or an insurance policy? Or do you need a comprehensive, long-term plan for reaching financial goals? If the former is the case, you don't really need a financial planner at this point. If the latter is true, a financial planner is exactly what you want.

The best way to find a competent financial professional is through recommendations. If you don't have recommendations from friends or business associates, contact trade associations or organizations which issue financial planning designations.

A few of these are the International Association of Financial Planning 404-395-1605, the Institute of Certified Financial Planners 800-282-7526, or the American College at 270 Bryn Mawr Avenue, Bryn Mawr, PA 19010.

Interview at least three of those recommended before making a decision. Ask about the planner's services, the type of investments recommended for someone in your situation, and fees.

Other questions could include the type clientele served, whether product recommendations are specific or generic, how the planner is compensated, the type follow-up provided to clients and the planner's professional designations. Ask to see a sample financial plan.

Unfortunately, anyone can call themselves a financial planner. There are no federal or state laws that set qualifications like those for CPAs and attorneys. However, there are a number of credentials which signify varying levels of expertise in financial planning.

Some of these credentials sound impressive but only require the planner to file a form and pay a fee (i.e., RIA). Others entail educational criteria, a certification exam, commitment to a code of ethics, and continuing education.

Some of these are Certified Financial Planner (CFP), Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA), Chartered Financial Consultant (ChFC), Personal Financial Specialist (PFS), Registered Financial Planner (RFP), and the Registry of Financial Planning Practitioners which carries the most stringent requirements.

Bush gets contract to improve Hwy. 90

Transportation Commissioner Ronnie Shows announced that a contract has been awarded for improvements to Highway 90 in Hancock County.

Bush Construction Company, Inc. of Laurel, Miss., was awarded the contract with a low bid of $189,618.

Shows said the project is for an asphalt overlay on four miles of Highway 90 beginning at the Pearl River Bridge and ending at Lower Bay Road.

He said the work will be done under traffic, and motorists will encounter lane closures.

The commissioner urges motorists to observe all highway construction advisory signs while driving through the project.

The contract completion date for the project is 20 working days or Nov. 30, 1994, whichever comes first.

Major stamp show at Biloxi

Friday through Sunday, June 3-5, the Holiday Inn Beachfront (Coliseum) at 2400 Beach Boulevard (US-90) in Biloxi will host the Gulf Coast Stamp Expo '94, sponsored by the Gulf Coast Stamp Club.

Hours are noon to 8 p.m. Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Admission and parking are free.

Compretta appointed to oversight committee

Representative J. P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis has been named to a joint legislative committee to oversee various bond transactions by the Mississippi Development Bank to assist local governments.

The six-member panel consists of three members each from the House of Representatives and state Senate.

The committee originally was created in 1989 to provide legislative oversight and review of revenue bonds issued through the state's Development Bank program for the purpose of giving financial assistance to municipalities and counties in construction of water pollution control facilities and other local projects.

The House appointments to the oversight committee were announced recently by Speaker Tim Ford. Other appointees are Rep. Charlie Williams of Senatobia and Jim Ellington of Jackson.

Compretta, who represents House District 122 in Hancock County, currently serves as chairman of the House Local and Private Legislation Committee.

He also is a member of the Ways and Means Committee, Conservation and Water Resources Committee, Judiciary A Committee, Interstate Cooperation Committee and Joint Legislative Committee on Performance Evaluation and Expenditure Review (PEER).

The wolf shall dwell with the lamb, with the kid...

and the little child shall lead them.
Isaiah 11:6

A black and white line drawing depicting a scene from the Bible. A young child, seen from the side, is walking and leading three animals. The child is wearing a simple tunic and has short hair. They are holding the hand of a large wolf that is walking upright on its hind legs. In front of the wolf is a small lamb, also walking upright. To the left of the lamb is a leopard, sitting on the ground and looking towards the viewer. The drawing is simple and illustrative, with no shading.
